ONE CHANCE OF LIFE.

Associated Charities Asks Aid for a Young Woman. Secretary Weller of the Associated

Charities is endeavoring to secure assistance for a young woman, a department store clerk, whose life or death may be determined, it is declared, by a decision which must be made at this time. Two months ago an agent of the Asso ciated Charities discovered a refined young white woman with a case of tuber culosis so far advanced that she could hardly be expected to live. There was just one chance for her life. She was sent to a sanatorium, where the Associated Charities became responsible for the payment of the reduced price of $7 a week, the $3 weekly balance being raised week, the $3 weekly balance being raised by the sanatorium auxiliary.

Mr. Weller says he has succeeded in collecting only $21 for her care, while an additional debt of $42 has already been incurred, and the liability is growing at the rate of $7 per week. One public appeal brought in only $2.

"Now the question is," Mr. Weller says "shall we tell the sanatorium people that we have no means to meet this obligation, and that they must send the girl back to the city home from which we rescued her? I fear it would simply be equivalent to signing the girl's death warrant.

to signing the girl's death warrant.
"Even if the girl remains at the sana torium her recovery, of course, is not absolutely certain. She is very sick, confined to her bed, and her disease is so advanced that several months of treatment will be required. She has held her own thus far, and is herself most cheerful and hopeful of ultimate recovery. The doctor says she has a fighting chance, but, of course, he cannot guarantee a cure. The point is that her one and only hope seems to be the continuation of her treatment at the sanatorium. The mere discourage-ment which may result from her dismissal might be sufficient to turn the balance against her recovery. "We hope some public-spirited citizens will give advice or aid to help the Asso-ciated Charities to decide this problem
